DeCurret DCP and Partior

DeCurret DCP operates DCJPY, a multi-bank tokenized deposit platform that enables participating banks to issue regulated digital deposits on a shared infrastructure. Designed for safe, atomic, and near-real-time settlement, DCJPY supports commercial and institutional use cases while fully complying with Japan's regulatory, legal, and operational frameworks.

Partior is a next-generation settlement network for cross-border wholesale payments, founded in 2021. Backed by JP Morgan Chase, DBS, SCB, and Temasek, Partior specialises in end-to-end payment orchestration, liquidity management, and FX PvP. The company is developing capabilities in tokenized W-CBDC, deposit token management, and unified settlement protocols.

What is DCJPY?

- ✓ Tokenised bank deposit liabilities
 - ✓ Issued by multiple participating banks
 - ✓ Transacted on a shared infrastructure
 - ✓ Operates within existing legal and regulatory frameworks in Japan
- ✗ Not a stablecoin
 - ✗ Not a CBDC
 - ✗ Does not change the nature of bank deposits

DCJPY | Tokenised Deposits with a 2-Layered Platform

DCJPY platform has a 2-layered architecture with “Business Zone” and “Financial Zone”.

DCJPY | DeCurret as a platformer

DeCurret powers DCJPY network as a platformer, providing service infrastructure to DCJPY issuing banks and companies in the Business Zone.

Japan Post Bank will be Issuing DCJPY in FY2026

We aim to modernize the economic foundation by bringing token economies into real-world use.

Japan Post Bank

The largest customer base of any Japanese bank

120 Million ordinary deposit accounts ※1

Most Extensive and stable deposit base in Japan

¥192 trillion in deposits, centered on retail banking customers ※1

Nationwide network covering every corner of the country

Network of approx. 24,000 post offices ※1

DCJPY = Bank Deposit

Tokenizes bank deposit itself

Covered by Deposit Insurance

DCJPY is considered as settlement deposit and users are under protection※ 2

Various Business Models and Use Cases

Provides Business Zone for network participants

Through the synergy of both companies, we aim to make new payment experiences and financial services more accessible — bringing fresh energy to local economies.

※ 1 Excerpted from the public materials released by Japan Post Bank on May 15, 2024.

※ 2 It was clarified in the first DCJPY project, that DCJPY is treated as a bank deposit and is covered under the deposit insurance system.
